Towns, Cities & Health Facilities
Western NSW Local Health District: Excellent career opportunities & great lifestyle!

Thank you for considering employment in the Western NSW Local Health District.

Western NSW Local Health District is geographically the largest health district in NSW. Our health services include acute inpatient, residential aged care and primary and community care facilities in more than 40 geographical locations. These facilities offer an extensive range of services including mental health, dental, allied health, public health, Aboriginal health and multicultural health services.

Western NSW Local Health District aims to provide services that are of high quality, safe, accessible, available when and where needed, and coordinated to meet each individual’s needs.

Our major Rural Referral Hospitals are located at Bathurst, Dubbo and Orange. District Health Services are located at Cowra, Lachlan (Forbes & Parkes) and Mudgee.

The Nursing and Midwifery directorate coordinates Transition to Professional Practice positions which are designed to enable the newly graduated Registered Nurse/Registered Midwife to be a confident, safe and caring practitioner; utilising knowledge and skills to provide best practice care to our community.

Good Luck. We hope to welcome you in the Western NSW Local Health District.
